Complaints that are not resolved within ten (10) working days will be referred to a competent authority (e.g., NGX, SEC, FMAN) depending on the applicable authority, within two (2) working days after the end of the ten (10) working days resolution period. A summary of the complaint, resolution attempts and supporting documents would be included. e. Monitoring

The Compliance function will at intervals review all complaints recorded in the Company's complaint register to confirm that there are no unresolved complaints and/or that the complaints handling procedure had been adhered to.

9. COMPLAINT MANAGEMENT STRUCTURE

Upon receipt of a complaint, Complaint Review Officers (CRO) will be appointed by the Compliance unit to handle the complaints management process from the receipt of a complaint to its resolution. When appointing CROs, the Chief Compliance Officer will ensure that the employee appointed as a CRO:

- a. is independent in his/her decision making;
- b. has the necessary expertise in the area under which a complaint falls;
- c. has easy access to relevant material, personnel and full cooperation within the company

Our complaints process provides two avenues for the prompt resolution of complaints internally; which are the Frontline Complaint point and the internal complaint point. The Chief Compliance Officer is responsible for appointing officers to handle clients' complaints at the frontline (if necessary) and internal complaints points.

a. Frontline Complaints Point

Negligible or Minor complaints will be handled at this stage.

Frontline resolution is for the prompt resolution of basic and uncomplicated client complaints that require little or no investigation. Any employee may deal with complaints at this stage.

The main purpose of Frontline resolution is to resolve complaints within the earliest possible time and as close to the point of service delivery as possible. This may mean a face-to-face discussion with the customer by the member of staff receiving the complaint, or asking an appropriate member of staff to deal directly with the complaint.

In either case, the complaint is resolved by providing an on-the-spot apology where appropriate, or explaining why the issue occurred and, where possible, what will be done to prevent a reoccurrence.

Upon resolution of the complaint, the decision taken must be officially communicated to the compliance unit so it can be logged into the Client Complaint Register. The report sent to compliance must include details of the complaint and the Complainant.

A frontline complaint may be escalated to the internal complaints point where;

- a. the client remains dissatisfied and requests for further investigation into the complaint.

- b. the issues raised, after discussions with the client, may require detailed investigation.
- c. the complaint relates to serious or high-risk issues which were not previously envisaged.
- b. Internal Complaints Point

Complaint review officers appointed at this stage are in charge of addressing complaints unresolved at the frontline, and all other complaints that do not fall under the Negligible or Minor category.

Thorough investigations will be carried out at this stage both internally and externally (if necessary), and any employee whose name comes up during investigation will be called upon to give more information.

Depending on the sensitivity of the complaint, the CRO may suggest that a panel or committee be set up to look into the complaint to avoid any bias.

Upon resolution of the complaint, the decision taken must be communicated to the compliance unit in the form of a comprehensive report, so it can be logged into the Client Complaint Register.

10. REFERRAL OF COMPLAINT

- a. Where a complaint is not resolved within ten (10) working days or the complainant is unsatisfied with the outcome, AVA Group or the complainant shall refer the complaint to a competent authority within two (2) working days after the expiration of ten (10) working days from the date the complaint was received.
- b. The referral shall be accompanied by a summary of the sequence of events leading to the referral and copies of any relevant document that might aid the competent authority in addressing the complaint.
- c. Complaints referred to the competent authority will be resolved within twenty (20) working days, however, where a complainant is not satisfied with the competent authority's decision; the complainant shall have a right to refer the matter to the SEC within two (2) working days.
- d. Complaints referred to SEC shall be resolved within twenty (20) working days or for an extended time as the commission deems fit.
- e. Complainants still not satisfied with the decision or outcome of the commission reserve the right to proceed to the Investment and Securities Tribunal (IST).

- f. Follow-up actions

The complaints register shall be updated regularly, and status reports of complaints filed with us shall be forwarded to both the NGX and the SEC on a quarterly basis.
